

Lancashire Schools need governors could you rise to that challenge?

Lancashire County Council is looking to recruit people from a diverse range of backgrounds and with a wide range of experience to undertake the key role of school governor.

Becoming a governor is a great way to contribute to your local community and improve the lives of local children. You don't need specialist knowledge or educational expertise – governing bodies need a range of people who can bring the skills and experience they've developed at work, or in voluntary roles in the community.

Local Authority School Governors are volunteers who work together with the head teacher and the county council to improve education and other outcomes for all pupils. You don't need any formal qualifications, you'll get full training and support to make sure you are fully equipped to carry out the role successfully.

The role would give you the opportunity of using existing skills, and developing new ones and people from as wide a range of backgrounds as possible are invited to apply.
